

Get going on your Thesis

The doctoral thesis is possibly the largest document you'll independently author. It's a major undertaking that requires careful planning, organization and extensive writing and re-writing. In order to give you a strong start this workshop will provide an opportunity to:

- Consider the purpose of the thesis, its structure and format
- Understand the criteria for examination and the examiner's role
- Identify and refine your thesis message
- Map out your thesis
- Consider techniques for drafting/ revising and finalizing your writing
- How to best engage your supervisor with the thesis-writing process
- Create a realistic plan to complete your thesis

This is a 3-hour interactive workshop for postgraduate researchers in the second half of their PhD journey.
