

Leadership skills (mini-sessions)

Delegation

Sometimes we fall into the trap of thinking: If I don't do this (task/ job/ activity) myself it won't get done properly. In this mini-session you'll be invited to consider the sources and implications of this thinking and explore the art of delegation as a leadership skill.

Motivation

Research leaders create momentum and build community around emerging concepts. This mini-session looks at motivation as an energy source that can be both generated and transmitted.

Supporting others

You don't have to wait to be 'in charge' or have a fancy job title before exercising your leadership skills. In this mini-session learn about leading from within an organization by working in support of others.

Three 1.5-hour mini-sessions suitable for postgraduate and postdoctoral researchers

Dr Jennifer Allanson holds an honorary lectureship at the School of Natural Sciences & Psychology at LJMU, runs her own training and development consultancy.